

Jack Knight

I lived most of my life in Harrods Creek, Kentucky, a rural suburb of Louisville. Growing up in the Episcopal Church was a central part of my family's principals. Church camp and youth functions were attended without much resistance. My banking career spanned thirty five years; first as administrator for our 34 branches and then EVP for our Private Banking operation for the State of Kentucky. The bank is now a part of the JP Morgan Chase operation centered in New York. Service to the community was part of our family's legacy.

I served on the boards for Metro United Way, Fund for the Arts, Actor's Theater, Family and Children's Agency and the Kentucky Arts and Crafts Foundation. Bob Bowman (my husband) and I moved to Placitas 22 years ago. Both being Episcopalians we visited many local parishes. St. Michael's stood out. Both of us have served in various capacities within the church. I have served once on the vestry and been a member of both the Finance and Endowment Committees.

I consider the candidacy for Vestry to be especially important at this time.
